2. History

Berrien County

Berrien County, located in the south-central portion of Georgia, was created on February 25, 1856. It is Georgia's 116th county, created by an act of the Georgia General Assembly from parts of Coffee, Irwin, and Lowndes Counties. The county is named after the former U.S. Senator, U.S. Attorney General, and Georgia politician John Macpherson Berrien (1781-1856). The county contains four municipalities: Alapaha, Enigma, Nashville, and Ray City. Berrien County borders Atkinson, Coffee, Cook, Irwin Lanier, Lowndes, and Tift Counties.

City of Alapaha

Alapaha developed from a trade settlement on the site of Seminole Village and depot and operated in the town on the route of the Brunswick and Albany Railroad around 1874. The 1880s and 1890s brought an agricultural and industrial boom in forestry, timber, and naval stores. Alapaha, incorporated in 1881. In 1897, a catastrophic fire destroyed many uninsured businesses in downtown Alapaha.

Alapaha was also known for the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad train wreck on March 26, 1911. The Dixie Flyer derailed on a high trestle across the Alapaha River, killing ten and injuring many wealthy Northern socialites who were traveling to the coast. Eight weeks before the Armistice ended World War 1, Alapaha lost four of the total of 25 men in the infamous Otranto troopship disaster, off the coast of Scotland.

City of Enigma

Enigma is a small town in southern Georgia, located in the northwest corner of Berrien County. Enigma was founded between 1876 and 1880, by John A. Ball and incorporated on August 21, 1906. It was originally a settlement, commonly referred to as "Gunn and Weston" until Ball decided he wanted a real name for the town. By definition, Enigma means a puzzle or mystery, and Ball said, "It was a puzzle what to name it anyway."

City of Nashville

Nashville, the county seat of Berrien County was incorporated as a town on December 20, 1892, and as a city in 1900. The town was originally founded in 1840 and named in like fashion to its Tennessee counterpart, Nashville, for the Revolutionary War hero General Francis Nash (1742-1777), fatally wounded in the Battle of Germantown. Nashville is the largest city within Berrien County with a total area of 4.7 square miles.

City of Ray City

Ray City was formally named Ray's Mill and was located one mile east of the present town on Ray's Mill Pond and was named for Thomas M. Ray retaining Ray's Mill name for several years. The mill was operated by water from the pond to grind meal and hominy grits from the corn while being operated by Mr. Thomas Ray until his death. In 1909, Perry T. Knight, State Representative from Berrien County, introduced a bill to change the town's name to Ray City. On August 16, 1909, Ray City became incorporated.

During the years of heavy rail traffic in Berrien County, the cutting of crossties was a very lucrative business. As the Great Depression had a devastating impact on Ray City, it suffered losses of many of its people and businesses. When Moody Air Force Base opened, it provided many needed jobs and helped to restore the City's economic base. Many military families have chosen Ray City as their home following retirement.

3. Community Involvement

The required elements have been developed with extensive opportunities for involvement and input from stakeholders throughout the county and cities. The following steps were taken to ensure this plan reflects the full range of needs and opportunities of the many stakeholders and residents in the county:

- a) Stakeholders were identified. These included Mayors, City Council persons, County Administrators/Managers, Code Enforcement Officers, Chamber of Commerce directors, Utilities Departments, Main Street Directors, and City Clerks.
- b) Participation techniques were identified. Techniques used included a kick-off public information meeting, printed public information in local newspapers, and information on the Southern Georgia Regional Commission's website and local government websites.
- c) A participation program was conducted. Identified stakeholders were invited and attended; yielding specific input in plan content.
- d) Community Involvement Activities documented. A list of stakeholders and an overview of participation...(photos, sign-in sheets, agendas, minutes, published advertisements, emails, and the SGRC website) are included.

6. Conduct Participation Program

A foundational principle utilized by the Southern Georgia Regional Commission in all of its planning projects is public and stakeholder participation from, and coordination with, multiple and diverse interest groups. Outreach to the public, local governments, and other stakeholders and interested parties was accomplished by e-mail correspondence, direct communication, the project website, and updates provided at workshops and other group meetings. Opportunity for public comment was presented at public hearings and city and county commission meetings. The Steering Committee reviewed the plan ensuring the broadest buy-in and diversity of input into the comprehensive plan update.

In addition to the two required public hearings, SGRC held a series of three workshops to discuss several elements of the plan. The first workshop was used to review the existing goals, issues, and opportunities; in the form of a SWOT (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats) analysis, participants updated the list of goals, issues, and opportunities to meet current needs. Copies of the sign-in sheets are provided in the appendix along with public hearing notices.

The policies were reviewed to reflect the revised issues and opportunities. The Report of Accomplishments and Community Work Program was discussed and developed in individual meetings with each community. Emphasis was put on achievable, realistic projects for the next five years. A section for long-term projects the communities plan to undertake has been added to the Community Work Program.

The third workshop was utilized to update the Economic Development Element and the Land Use Element and Maps as desired by the local governments.

In addition to the two required public hearings, SGRC held a series of three workshops to discuss several elements of the plan.

7. Consideration of Regional Water Plan and Environmental Planning Criteria

During the preparation of the Comprehensive Plan, the local governments must review both the Regional Water Plan covering its area and the GDNR Rules for Environmental Planning Criteria, as laid out in Chapter 391-3-16, to determine whether any local implementation practices or development regulations need to be adapted to be consistent with both.

Suwannee-Satilla Regional Water Plan

Berrien County is within the area of the Suwannee-Satilla Regional Water Plan, which was adopted in June 2023. The Suwannee-Satilla Council is one of 11 planning regions charged with developing Regional Water Plans and encompasses 18 counties in the southeastern portion of Georgia (shown in Figure ES-1). An overview of the updated findings and recommendations for the Suwannee- Satilla Region are provided in this Executive Summary. The Suwannee- Satilla Council’s Regional Water Plan is available on the Council’s website.

The Suwannee-Satilla Council has identified 13 goals for the region. It is important to note that the goals are summarized below, not presented in order of priority, but instead were assigned a number to identify specific goals addressed as part of the water management practice selection process.

“The Vision of the Suwannee- Satilla Regional Council is to manage water resources in a sustainable manner under Georgia’s regulated riparian and regulated reasonable use laws to support the state’s and region’s economy, to protect public health and natural resources, and to enhance the quality of life for all citizens; while preserving the private property rights of Georgia’s landowners, and in consideration of the need to enhance resource augmentation and efficiency opportunities.”

Suwannee-Satilla Regional Water Plan Goals:

1. Manage and develop water resources to sustainably and reliably meet domestic, commercial, industrial water needs, and agricultural water needs, including all agricultural sectors (this includes the agroforestry economy of the region).
2. Manage groundwater and surface water to encourage sustainable economic and population growth in the region.
3. Manage the region's and state's water resources in a manner that preserves and protects private property rights.
4. Ensure an adequate water supply of suitable quality to meet current and future human needs, while protecting environmental resources.
5. Identify opportunities to optimize existing and future supplies, and water and wastewater infrastructure.
6. Promote efficient use and management of surface and groundwater resources to allow for sufficient supplies for current and future generations.
7. Protect and manage surface and groundwater recharge areas to ensure sufficient long-term water supplies for the region.
8. Protect, maintain, and where appropriate and practicable, identify opportunities to enhance water quality, and river base flows.

Addressing Water Needs and Regional Goals

This Section presents the Suwannee-Satilla Council's water management practices selected to address resource shortfalls or challenges identified and described in Section 5, and/or meet the Council's Vision and Goals described in Section 1.

Identifying Water Management Practices

The comparison of Resource Assessments and forecasted needs presented in Section 5 identifies the Region’s likely resource shortfalls or challenges and demonstrates the need for region and resource specific water management practices. In the cases where shortfalls or challenges appear to be unlikely based on the comparison of the Region’s Resource Assessments and forecasted needs, the management practices described in this section have been selected to also meet those needs specified by the Council (e.g., facility/infrastructure needs and practices, programmatic practices, etc.) that are aligned with the Region’s Vision and Goals. In selecting the actions needed (i.e., water management practices), the Council considered practices identified in existing plans, the Region’s Vision and Goals, and coordinated with local governments and water providers as well as neighboring Councils who share these water resources.

Review of Existing Plans and Practices

The Council conducted a comprehensive review of existing local and regional water management plans and relevant related documents to frame the selection of management practices. The types of plans/studies that were reviewed to support identification and selection of management practices for the Suwannee-Satilla Region consisted of the following:

- Comprehensive Work Plans (local and regional scale)
- Regional infrastructure and permitting plans
- EPD databases (permitted withdrawals, planned projects, and proposed reservoirs)
- State-wide guidance documents (conservation, cost, and water planning)
- Best Management Practices (forestry, agriculture, and stormwater management)
- Water quality studies including Watershed Protection Plans (basin, watershed, and local scale)
- TMDL evaluations

When possible, successful management practices already planned for and/or in use in the Suwannee-Satilla Region formed the basis for the water management practices selected by the Council.

In recognition of the importance of broadband infrastructure to the vitality of communities, the Georgia legislature passed the Achieving Connectivity Everywhere (ACE) Act (SB 402) in 2018. The Act provides planning, deployment, incentives, and other purposes for broadband services. It also requires comprehensive plans to promote the deployment of broadband services. Berrien County, the Cities of Alapaha, Engima, Nashville and Ray City recognize the importance of broadband expansion by including this Element in their Comprehensive Plan.

Broadband services enable residents to access vital services such as healthcare, economic opportunity, and education. Expansion of rural broadband and improvement in the position of broadband services can address concerns of resident out-migration. Effective and efficient broadband enables internet-based businesses to succeed in the global economy. Educating upcoming generations of students in web literacy and digital skills training with adequate broadband speed and connectivity is challenging.

VIII. Economic Development Element

The 2022-2026 Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (CEDS), developed by the Southern Georgia Regional Commission (SGRC) under a grant from the US Department of Commerce Economic Development Administration, is hereby incorporated by reference into this Comprehensive Plan to serve as the Economic Development Element for Berrien County and the Cities of Alapaha, Enigma, Nashville, and Ray City.

The SGRC’s CEDS was designed to bring together the public and private sectors in the creation of an economic roadmap to diversify and strengthen the regional economy. The CEDS contains an analysis of the regional economy and serves as a guide for establishing regional goals and objectives, a regional plan of action, investment priorities, and funding sources.

As a performance-based plan, the CEDS plays a critical role in adapting to global economic conditions by fully utilizing the region’s unique advantages to maximize economic opportunities for its residents by attracting job-creating private investment. The CEDS is a regionally owned strategy that is the result of a continuing economic development planning process developed with regional public- and private-sector participation. The CEDS sets forth the goals and objectives necessary to solve the economic development problems of the Southern Georgia region and clearly defines the measures of success.

The Southern Georgia CEDS gives an overview of the region, briefly describing the geography, population, economy, labor and workforce development and use, education, transportation access, environment, and regional resources. It reviews the state of the regional economy and provides a list of achievable goals and objectives for the region, a plan of action to ensure success, and performance measures used to evaluate the strategy’s successful development and implementation.

Policies, needs, opportunities, and projects drawn from the current comprehensive plans for each jurisdiction in the 18-county SGRC region were used extensively to develop the EDA Investment Priorities, CEDS Strategic Focus Areas, Goals and respective Action Plans. Furthermore, the CEDS was also used to provide guidance for developing the goals, opportunities, policies, and projects in this local Comprehensive Plan.

Goals, needs and opportunities, policies, and community work program projects related to economic development can be found in the “Economic Development” subsections of the relevant sections of this Comprehensive Plan (goals in Section 1, needs and opportunities in Section 2, policies in Section 6, and work program projects in Section 7).

Furthermore, included below are strategic focus areas, goals, and action plans from the regional CEDS that are strongly aligned with the current economic development goals of Berrien County and the Cities of Alapaha, Enigma, Nashville, and Ray City.

IX. Land Use Element

Character Areas

In keeping with State Minimum Planning Standards, every part of the Greater Berrien Community was delineated into specific Character Areas. Character areas are intended to serve as guidance for future land use and land development. Each of the following character area narratives were developed based on stakeholder input, existing land uses, anticipated development, planned infrastructure improvements and expansions, and guidance found in the State Planning Recommendations. As with the Plan in general, these character area descriptions and goals should not be considered final. As the community gains a greater understanding of the role and value of character areas, their descriptions should be fine-tuned. Additionally, as the community continues to grow, specific character area depictions may need adjusting.

Each Character Area narrative has a unique Description stating either the existing or desired qualities for that area. (Please note the associated picture for each area represents the current state of the specific area and should not be construed to necessarily represent the desired state, although, for some descriptions, this may be the case.) Predominant Land Uses are then described.

The stated Development Strategy should serve as a guide for all development and redevelopment taking place in the Character Area. Adherence to these development strategies is intended to ensure consistent and complementary development, which promotes a greater sense of place and overall improved quality of life.

The listing of Permitted Zoning Districts provides guidance as to the land development districts that are encouraged within each Character Area. While many of the differences between uses can be masked through site design and development standards, there are certain uses that are incompatible with surrounding uses and should not be permitted.

As required by the State, the Quality Community Objectives demonstrate the unique ideals established for each Character Area. (See Section II, subsection 4 of this plan for descriptions of each Quality Community Objective.) While there is certainly a value to regional planning, planning on the neighborhood (or character area) level allows for the greater implementation of specific objectives, which ultimately promotes an improved quality of life.

The Implementation Measures are the specific activities or programs which could take place within each of the Character Areas. While the suggested list of measures may or may not currently exist in the Greater Berrien Community, their implementation in appropriate areas would help achieve the established objectives and overall development strategy for each Character Area. In most cases, these measures should be considered joint efforts between the local government, development community, and citizens alike.

Character Area and Existing Land Use maps are provided in the Appendix.

CHARACTER AREAS

Agriculture

(Unincorporated Berrien County)

DESCRIPTION

These are prime agriculture areas intended for agricultural use. Residential uses should be accessory to agricultural uses and should maintain a rural character. Residential lots should be large (no less than 1 acre), or else homes should be clustered on smaller lots to preserve large tracts of natural areas and open space. Setbacks, residential landscaping, and site design should be employed to maintain a rural character, with plentiful open space and wooded areas. The land in Berrien County is approximately 95% agricultural, dedicated to farming, including fields, lots, pastures, livestock production, and specialty farms.

PREDOMINANT LAND USES:

Agricultural farm operations and related activities, natural resource conservation, groundwater recharge areas, and low-density residential development accessory to agricultural or farm operations of varying sizes.

DEVELOPMENT STRATEGY:

Preserve the rural/agricultural character of these areas by maintaining very low-density residential development primarily accessory to farm operations and large lot sizes. The use of conservation easements to protect environmentally sensitive areas should be encouraged. Roadways in these areas should be widened only when required to meet public safety standards.

PERMITTED ZONING DISTRICTS:

Agricultural
Residential

QUALITY COMMUNITY OBJECTIVES:

- 1) Economic Prosperity
- 2) Resource Management
- 3) Sense of Place

IMPLEMENTATION MEASURES:

- Berrien County should develop a comprehensive inventory of natural resources within the County to ensure their protection and continued preservation (Policy 1.2).
- Promote and encourage sustainable and innovative agri-business opportunities (Policy 2.10).
- Coordinate with Moody Air Force Base via the JLUS study to ensure that any flight impacts to cultural and natural resources within Berrien County are mitigated (Policy 5.2).

Since these areas are within incorporated cities, it is expected that they will eventually be built out with more residential development as population grows. However, rural character should be preserved.

PERMITTED ZONING DISTRICTS:

Agricultural
Residential
